Council Meets Monday

Tax Rate May Drop

"A penny saved is a penny earned," Benjamin Franklin once said.

With that thought apparently in mind, the City Council in Daly City is expected to drop the city's tax rate by one cent at its next regular meeting Monday — $1.89 per $100 of assessed valuation.

This decrease in the tax rate was brought about by a 4.7 per cent increase in the county's assessment rolls for Daly City, the lowest increase in years.

City Mgr. David Rowe said that despite the "substantially higher increase in the cost of services and supplies" the city staff worked out a budget which allows the tax cut.

Rowe trimmed pennies from two funds this year and added .003 cents to the Employee Benefit Fund to bring about the balance.

Rowe predicted there will be an increase in assessed valuation next year in the city.

This would offset the need for dipping into the city's reserve funds for additional library and recreation programs scheduled for next year, it was explained.

This is the second straight year Daly City has dropped its tax rate.

Total assessed valuation of Daly City for 1975-76 has been set by the county at $173,242,666.

By FRANK LAPIERRE

It may come as something of a blow to the residents of Broadmoor Village, but Daly City doesn't want their homes.

City Manager David Rowe said Monday that Daly City is interested only in acquiring the commercial and industrial areas of Broadmoor.

"The residential area does not make a significant difference to (Daly City) whether it is annexed or not," Rowe said.

But without the commercial-industrial areas producing a tax base for Broadmoor, the residential areas will crumble like a house of cards, police district Commissioner John McCloskey predicted.

At the present time, Broadmoor's police district is hanging on by its fingernails. And it is losing its grip.

The police district's reserve fund a year ago was boasting $90,000. This year the fund is down to $26,000 and dropping, as money is dipped out to support the police district budget.

The financial plight was evident more than a year ago.

Since then, piecemeal annexation of Broadmoor has steadily weakened the tax base.

There is now disagreement over how long the police district can continue to exist.

Some say if the present police force of seven men is cut to four it might survive another year.

Others argue the handwriting is on the wall, so why not try to find other employment for the officers before the department folds.

Jerry Biagini equates the small Broadmoor enclave annexation threat posed by Daly City with Hitler's "gobbling up of more land" in Europe in the early 1940s.

However, Biagini, one of the proponents of a recall petition against Police Commissioner McCloskey, said, "I will try to make the best of it under a new government" if Broadmoor is annexed.

All he wants, Biagini said, is for the people of Broadmoor to have a voice in what goes on in their community.

"Win or lose, the people will have a chance to express themselves in the McCloskey recall," Biagini said.

Biagini said he would "gladly pay double" his present tax rate to keep the police district intact and Daly City out.

Police Commissioner Vince Murphy, a retired Daly City postmaster, said it would take "at least double the present taxes" to keep the district financially sound.

Turmoil has divided residents of Broadmoor in recent months over the annexation issue and the alleged failure of the three police commissioners to inform the public of meetings held with Daly City officials to discuss annexation.

Knowledge that these meetings were being held sparked the current McCloskey recall try.

The turmoil also led to the resignation of two Broadmoor Property Owners Association directors who said they felt a conflict of interest might arise if they continued in their positions.

Last week's meeting of the Broadmoor Police District became the setting of a debate between McCloskey and several members of the community, it was learned.

McCloskey charged his critics "are not being realistic."

"And I'm not so sure the property owners will go along with this," he added.

Murphy estimated Broadmoor has 30 per cent absentee ownership of land.

These (absentee) people don't care what city they are in for police and fire protection. We already pay taxes for the Broadmoor Police District and the Sheriff's Office. I'm not ready to pay even more taxes," Murphy said.

"I was put on the defensive throughout the (district) meeting," McCloskey said. "I have always fought against annexation to Daly City, but I see no alternative."

He said he checked with Foster City, South San Francisco, Santa Rosa and the Sheriff's Office, in an effort to place Broadmoor police officers if the district fails.

But the ideal place, of course, would appear to be right here — if annexation is realized," he said.

No matter how much Broadmoor residents are willing to pay in taxes, if two annexations that are now in the hopper are successful — Sterling Park and the QFI Market area east of Junipero Serra Boulevard — it will spell the end of Broadmoor, McCloskey said.

Airport Open

San Francisco Airport manager William Dwyer vowed today to keep the airport operating at normal with no curtailment of flights or services.

Dwyer made the statement following an emergency meeting of his airport staff, FAA officials and fire chiefs from surrounding communities. At 8:30 a.m. crash rescue fire fighters assigned to the airport began calling in sick. By 9 a.m. it was evident that only three men out of the 17 assigned were available for work, Dwyer said.

The emergency team set up by Dwyer had begun talks Monday in an effort to work out contingency plans in the event San Francisco firemen carried out their threat to walk off the job.

This morning Dwyer called in a five man fire fighting company from San Francisco under the leadership of Asst. Fire Chief Joe Daley. This company combined with the three officers

Former Judge Explains Role at Dolwig Trial

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Former Florida Judge U. F. Duval, an undicted co-conspirator in the federal government's fraud and conspiracy case against retired State Sen. Richard Dolwig and six other men, said Friday he was never the sole director or president of "Eurovest, Ltd."

Duval, who served as a magistrate in Dade County, Fla., for some ten years, said although he had been a director of Eurovest, Ltd. since 1973, it wasn't until July 2, 1975 — last month — that he learned from defendant David Kaplan "that I was in charge of Eurovest."

Duval retired from the bench and entered private law practice in Florida some two years ago, it was understood.

Stories circulating that he and his family control great wealth "are simply not true," he wished they were. Duval told the jury during cross-examination by defense attorney Matthew J. Segall.

Segall kept Duval on the witness stand most of Friday in efforts to break down his story that he was "used" by Kaplan in an alleged scheme to bilk developers by promising letters of credit to fund projects after receiving large cash advances.

Duval offered, at one point in Friday's session, to take a polygraph test. "If Mr. Kaplan does likewise,"

The 58-year-old Duval, divorced from his wife five years ago, denied knowledge of much of the correspondence exchanged between alleged fraud victims and several of the defendants in the trial, including Dolwig.

At one point, it was brought out during cross-examination, that Duval had phoned Dolwig, Eurovest's escrow trust agent, and told him to release some funds deposited by Oakland developer M. Paul Heck to Kaplan.

Dolwig said he could not release the funds without written approval from Duval.

This approval later was received in writing by Dolwig, it was learned.

There is even the possibility that two, not one "Eurovests" may actually exist — one in the Grand Cayman Islands (Eurovest, Ltd.) and another in Florida (Eurovest, Corp.).

Duval said he was uncertain about this, but acknowledged the possibility.

"The Judge," as many acquaintances call him, said he was misled into trusting Kaplan and his associates in Eurovest.

Consequently, he signed perhaps 20 blank pieces of paper.

He often signed blank papers "with my friends and people I thought I could trust," Duval said.

"I made a mistake (only) once," he said.

Duval said he first met Kaplan in 1967 in Boston. He did not meet Dolwig until last year at Kaplan's Miami Beach home during a party.

His only role in the entire Eurovest affair was to act as an attorney to Kaplan, he said.

Shortly before the Federal Grand Jury inquiry into the Eurovest matter, Kaplan asked him not to testify, Duval said.

Duval also said he had been instructed by Kaplan to deposit certain monies received into numbered accounts for him and another defendant David Gorwitz in the Grand Cayman Islands once they were released by Dolwig.

No Police Aid for SF

There will not be any Daly City police used as "strikebreakers" in San Francisco during that city's current dispute which sent 90 per cent of its police officers pounding the beat with picket signs.

This was made clear today by Daly City Police Chief David Hansen.

Hansen, a veteran of more than 25 years on the police force, said, however, the city would honor its mutual aid commitments in the event they are called upon.

Bay Area law enforcement agencies do not have mutual aid agreements covering what to do when a police department strikes.

But they do have agreements concerning mutual aid in the event of major problems — riots, fires and rescue operations.

Monday, Daly City Councilman William Schumacher said "We're not going to stand by and let life and limb be endangered."

If the city ordered their police across the boundary wouldn't they be interpreted as "strikebreakers," Schumacher was asked.

"I would not see them as strikebreakers, but as good public citizens trying to uphold the law," he said.

But City Attorney Albert Polonsky was less enthusiastic about the idea of sending Daly City's finest into San Francisco.

"I want to take a long hard look at this before I say anything," Polonsky said.

Exceptions to the "immediate response" rule set down by officials would include an officer in trouble or commission of a felony in view of a Daly City policeman.

If his department is called on to respond to a major crime directly across the border, they will respond, Hansen said.

Otherwise, San Francisco must call Area Control in Alameda, which routes the call to the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office, who, in turn, notifies Daly City.

No one will say how long this procedure takes before officers respond to the scene of an emergency.

Hansen says he does not want to comment on whether the San Francisco police strike is justified.

They may or may not "have a beef," Hansen said, adding "I just don't want to comment on this."

Hansen, however, is against police strikes.

"We have taken an oath to protect the public," he said.

"Personally, I think such strikes are unprofessional," Hansen said.

Teacher Blasts Administration

By JANET PARKER

If a South San Francisco teacher has his way, public administrators will find themselves less in their office and more, in the classroom.

Robert Gehl of San Mateo has presented to the South San Francisco Board of Trustees his desire to renovate the public school system. So far, however, his revolutionary intentions have made little progress.

Gehl was American Federation of Teachers president in the SSFUSD five years and was one of the 150 teachers who refused to strike with 350 colleagues two months ago.

He insists administrators are dispensable. Their duties, he said, are basically clerical and school districts would save money by delegating those jobs to a small clerical staff.

Administration is itself the chief problem in education," Gehl said.

His most recent speech to the board suggested two possible routes:

- Tell administrators to go on strike and after a month see if community, teachers and students notice their absence, or
- Slightly less drastic, tell administrators they will be placed on a teacher salary schedule, that they all must do some teaching and that administrative and clerical details will be treated as overtime.

"SCHOOLS aren't held together by the presence of administrators who sit snugly behind their desks letting the public assume the only thing wrong with the schools is the lazy and incompetent teachers," Gehl said.

Administration, he said, perpetuates problems. If administrators were to solve schools' problems, they would work themselves out of jobs.

"They must keep at least looking busy and important. It's the only way to keep the problems alive," he said.

This isn't the first time the Foxridge Elementary School teacher has been at odds with school leadership. In 1961, the San Bruno Park School District refused to renew his probationary contract, in effect, firing him.

Gehl said it was because of his push for legislation on student disciplinary action.

In his most recent speech to the trustees, Gehl said, "Administrators are not actually responsible or accountable for anything at all. Once they perform the simple clerical task of making sure that every child is assigned to a teacher for every minute of every day, at that moment they are free — completely off the hook."

THE ADMINISTRATORS state importantly that they are responsible for the whole school — like the peanut vendor at the ball park who announced grandly that he's responsible for the whole stadium," Gehl told the board.

Gehl said that when he originally made these proposals, the administration assumed he was promoting anarchy in the schools.

However, he disagrees. "There would be an administrator responsible for each school. He just wouldn't be sitting there all the time doing nothing," Gehl said.

The administrator, he suggests, actually would be a

Follett Pledges He'll 'Set Record Straight'

Robert L. Follett, general manager of Visitation Associates, said he plans to "set the record straight" at the San Mateo County Planning Commission's final public hearing on development of San Bruno Mountain.

The hearing is expected to be held in early September.

Follett called many of the charges voiced by development opponents as "misinformation, distortions and falsehoods."

He said the five major areas where most of the issues were raised centered around schools, impact on roads and traffic; fiscal impact of the project; price range of housing; and, number of jobs the project would generate.

On schools, Follett said his company recognized that the Brisbane School District, which would otherwise encompass the Crocker Hills project in the so-called "saddle area" of the mountain, only can handle an additional 200 students.

Visitation Associates had offered to build a K-5 elementary school which would be ready for use when the excess capacity of the present classrooms was filled in 1978, he explained.

"Obviously," Follett said, "there is no problem in providing schools for Crocker Hills residents well into the future. Yet, Robert Lloyd, superintendent of the Brisbane district, still insists that there will be a catastrophic effect on his educational system."

The "real answer," according to Follett, is to transfer the responsibility of the development students to the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City, where there is now an excess capacity for 2,000 students.

"Rather than spend millions of dollars to build new classrooms in the Brisbane district, it's only logical that we make use of the empty classrooms in this nearby district, which is experiencing a rapidly declining enrollment," Follett said.

He predicted redistricting would cut the JESD tax rate by some 60 cents.

The increased assessed valuation also would reduce the Jefferson Union High School District tax rate, he said.

Countering opposition arguments on the mountain development's fiscal impact, Follett said there is no evidence in the fiscal impact report that the development "would place any additional tax burden on any of the jurisdictions involved."

"And it has to be remembered," he said, "that the county's report was based on extremely pessimistic premises, conservative assumptions and highly questionable methodology."

Follett's criticism of the opposition's views came shortly after arguments against the development were concluded before the commission in Daly City last week.

San Bruno Council Sees New Bus Route Plan

By RICK SULLIVAN three-route transit system San Bruno unveiled tentative plans for a five-bus residents Monday night. After an almost one-hour presentation by Asst. City

Mgr. Jack Mulqueoney, councilmen suggested that they be provided with a cost estimate of operating the system before they decide to authorize that bids be let to purchase five 25-passenger buses.

The council also asked that they be provided with an evaluation of advantages and disadvantages of waiting to buy buses with federal funds that the San Mateo County Transit District believes should be available to the district by Jan. 1, 1976.

Currently the transit district owns all city-operated buses in the county. The district in the past has allocated Transit Development Act funds it receives from the Metropolitan Transportation Commission to the individual cities in the county that apply for funds to set up bus systems.

Now the district is hopeful that by Jan. 1, 1976, federal funds could pay for a major cost of the buses, and the district could save its TDA funds.

San Bruno is one of the only cities in the county without its own bus system.

The council had expressed, in the past its desire to allow the transit district to provide bus service to San Brunans.

However, of late the council has noted it will be several years before a countywide system is operating, and has now indicated its desire to go ahead with its own system.

Mulqueoney, who along with planning department aide Jim Evans, designed the bus system, told the council the city's goal is to provide transportation "for those who need it" and to reduce the dependence on the automobile.

Those most likely to regularly use the bus system, Mulqueoney said, would be handicapped persons, those residents without cars, senior citizens, children and one-car family members.

He outlined for the council, what he called "primary need locations" for the major groups the buses would serve.

Mulqueoney said buses, traveling on the average of about 15 miles per hour, would travel from one end of a route to the other in 30 minutes.

Two buses each would travel on Route A and B and one bus would travel on a shorter Route C.

Route A, 6.5 miles, would begin at Skyline College travel down through Rollingwood to the Tanforan Shopping Center, then wind downtown to Huntington Avenue up to Mills Park then back again.

Route B, also 6.5 miles, would begin at Portola Highlands, travel down through Crestmoor and parts of Mills Park, throughout downtown, across Bayshore Freeway to the United Airlines maintenance base, then back over the highway to Tanforan Shopping Center, and return along the same route.

Route C, 3.5 miles, would begin at the Skycrest Shopping Center, travel through parts of Crestmoor, past City Park, through a section of Mills Park, then across El Camino Real to service the avenues, down Huntington, and back along the same route.

Mulqueoney said all the bus routes would interface with bus systems in neighboring cities, including Pacifica, Millbrae and South San Francisco.

Operating hours would be weekdays, from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturdays 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Buses would not operate on Sunday.

General bus fares would be 25 cents with a free one-way transfer.

Handicapped persons, senior citizens and children would pay 10 cents a ride.

Councilman Tony Governale said he believed it "vitally important" that access to the United Airlines maintenance base be available to all neighborhoods in the city.

He said although he recognized buses regularly running to the base would inconvenience some city residents, the run would take much of the traffic off city streets.

Councilmen Margaret Kozkowski and Gary Mondrans disagreed. Both said they thought it sufficient that the base be provided access during morning and afternoon commute periods.

Noting the city only planned to purchase five buses and to use all five buses on designated routes, Councilman Mondrans asked Mulqueoney how the city would provide a back-up bus, during routine repairs of any one bus.

Mulqueoney said when a back-up bus was needed, the city could lease a neighboring city's back-up bus and thus save the city the cost of an additional bus.

Chamber of Commerce Mgr. Jerry Chandler told the council, "It's impossible not to consider having a back-up bus." He reminded the council that most of the time buses would be traveling on steep and hilly terrain and that this would necessitate frequent servicing.

"You can't depend on anybody but yourself for a back-up bus," he said.

Chandler also advised the council to appropriate some money for promotion of the system, once it begins operation.

Other residents complained that some neighborhoods would not be adequately serviced by the proposed routes and suggested alternatives, and one woman said she thought the routes "catered to United Airlines and the schools, which both operate their own buses, and not the people of San Bruno."

San Bruno hopes to have its buses running by July 1, 1976.

Mulqueoney promised he would have a cost estimate of operating the buses at next Monday night's City Council meeting.

He said he also would study some suggested changes in the routes.

head teacher. He could be elected on a one year basis by faculty and he would be required to teach every two or three years.

"I don't insist on getting rid of administration," he said. "I insist administration be held accountable and responsible."

"If the administrators went on strike, classroom teachers suddenly would be given authority commensurate with the responsibility so long dumped upon them," Gehl said in his speech.

However, administrators never will strike, because, he said, non-teaching personnel know no one calls a substitute for them and nobody needs to.

THEIR ABSENCE will not inconvenience the schools and their staying out on the sidewalk would make it miraculously apparent that the schools run better without them," he said.

SSEUSD administrators won't talk about Gehl's statements.

Supt. Dr. Paul Nielsen said he preferred "not to dignify" his (Gehl's) remarks.

Nielsen called the teacher's presentations to the board "the gospel and verse according to Mr. Gehl."

Associate Supt. Joe Smith said the administration doesn't take Gehl's suggestions seriously.

He said the two-page job description outlining his own administrative duties is proof that his job is necessary. School boards, he said, pay administrators to be administrators and they just can't be teachers at the same time.

Gehl said he will continue to press the board for revolutionary change.

"I'm simply saying we are doing a poor job in public schools today," he said.

Help! Summer has almost completed its local engagement and it's time to set the stage for the rash of activities which are always booked into our schedules for September.

FRANK GALLO, the Daly City man who heads the Balboa Alumni Association, has slated the first planning session for the alumni's fall program for Aug. 25.

Gallo will be bringing the refreshments and all board members are being asked to bring their ideas and enthusiasm. Mrs. Nanci Reynolds is opening her home for the gathering which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Secretary Mrs. Mary Boero will be mailing out reminders to all board members to make sure there is 100% attendance.

If you are a Balboa High School graduate and if you have some ideas concerning the school or the alumni, get in touch with one of the two San Mateo County residents who help guide the alumni's activities and programs. Gallo can be reached at 513 Hanover St., Daly City, phone 584-7747, or Gerald Skagfjord, 770 Ninth Ave., Redwood City, 366-6683.

Next Wednesday at this time members of the Pacifica Fifty-Plus Club will be holding their annual picnic in the sheltered Crow's Nest in Junipero Serra Park, San Bruno.

President Lucile Rentmeester, her son and his wife, aided by other volunteers, will be in charge of the event.

Persons planning to attend the picnic are asked to send $1 to Mrs. Almabel Williams, the club's treasurer.

THE REGULAR meeting of the Daly City Community for Children's Services will not be held on the regular meeting date due to the Labor Day holiday, according to Mrs. Rhena Gonzalez, the director of community support.

Persons wishing to attend the regular meeting are asked to call Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591, for information about the organization and methods available to community persons to participate and assist with the development of the community for children's services.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO's Mrs. Rudy Enberg notes that the expense of sending 100 children and 25 mothers to the Friends Outside Family camp this month has worked havoc on the organization's funds.

Persons interested in helping with this work for the children and spouses of men and women in California's prisons and jails, are asked to consider making a special donation before summer ends.

For information about the program call Mrs. Enberg, the executive director, or one of the volunteer workers in the Friends Outside office, 661-6900.

MRS. VIRGINIA Stanghellini, president of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, reminds members and friends that Sept. 1 is the deadline for tickets to the Afternoon of Music, featuring Mrs. Phyllis Ryan.

The benefit performance by Mrs. Ryan will be held in the hall at 3368 Jackson St. on Sept. 14. Donations of $2.50 per person should be mailed to Mrs. Fran Gaffigan, 1544 Victoria Way, Pacifica, within the next seven days.

MRS. CAROL Benkie of the Center for Better Living in Daly City requests that anyone planning to enroll in the next session of the Parent Child Communication course being sponsored by the Mental Health Association of San Mateo County and the Daly City mental health center, contact her immediately to assure a space reservation.

Classes are limited to 15 persons per session and enrollment is on a first-come first-served basis.

For more information call Mrs. Benkie, 756-5091. Persons living outside the Daly City area may contact Mrs. Ruth Boudinot, 355-6784, Pacifica, or John Rasmussen, South San Francisco, 589-0858.

MINSTRONE SOUP
IT IS WELL WORTH THE TIME AND EFFORT

Soup Stock: Four Bouillon bones or Beef Knuckles, or Beef Shanks. 3 quarts cold water and one tbl. salt. Simmer slowly 3 1/4 to 4 hrs. Remove bouillon bones or knuckles, strain. Let cool overnight and remove fat, yield approximately 2 quarts. 1/4 cup diced salt pork, 3/4 cup chopped onions, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2/3 cup chopped leeks, white part only, 1 cup diced carrots, 2/3 cup chopped celery, 1 1/2 cup diced potatoes, 2/3 cup peas, 3/4 cup small macaroni broken up, 1 1/2 cups grated Parmesan cheese, 2 quarts soup stock, 1 tbl. salt, 1/3 tsp. pepper.

Cook salt pork slightly, then add onions, carrots, leeks, celery and cabbage, simmer until soft 5 to 8 minutes. Add soup stock and seasoning, boil 15 to 20 minutes. Add potatoes, cook 10 minutes longer. Add peas and macaroni, cook 20 minutes longer, then add tomatoes and kidney beans, let simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Just before serving add grated cheese, stir over low heat until cheese starts melting. 6 to 8 servings.

Serve with a delightful Zinfandel

Governale Mulls Supervisor Race

San Bruno Councilman Tony Governale is considering running for a seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Governale told The Post last week that in November he will formally declare his candidacy for the Board of Supervisors' seat currently held by James Fitzgerald of San Bruno.

Fitzgerald's term expires in June, 1976.

"I think there has been a tremendous separation between county and city roles," Governale said. "Both the cities and the county should be working together in many areas."

A San Bruno councilman for the past five years, Governale believes that too much of the county Board of Supervisors' attention is being addressed to Mid and South County issues.

"It seems that the Board of Supervisors direct much of their attention to the South and not the North County," Governale said. "To get something up here, it takes an arm and a leg."

"We haven't got a superior court judge, we have inadequate open space, and it took us years to get a (per arraignments) holding facility up here," he said.

Governale said that before he makes a formal declaration of candidacy he must calculate the amount of money and support needed to wage a successful campaign. He said he also has to consider personal obligations.

Three years ago Governale unsuccessfully challenged Louis Papan for a seat in the State Assembly.

Besides being a councilman and former mayor of San Bruno, Governale serves as chairman of the Airport Land Use Commission of which he has been a member for the past five years, and is on the executive boards of the Association of Bay Area Governments, the Peninsula Water District and the San Mateo County Visitors Bureau.

TONY GOVERNALE
Tests Candidacy

Governale is a 45-year old salesman, who has resided 18 years in San Bruno.

Fitzgerald, who was a longtime San Bruno councilman, has been re-elected twice to the board of supervisors. In his last two reelection bids, he ran unchallenged.

DE LA RENTA FASHION SHOW TALK

Among Peninsulans coordinating plans for the Aug. 25 style show being presented by the Presbyterian Hospital Auxiliary of the Pacific Medical Center are (from left) Mesdames Harry Marks, Murray H. Freedman and Bonnie de la Ossa. The event will take place Aug. 25 at the St. Francis Hotel, and will feature styles by Oscar de la Renta.

Robber Locks Up Watchman

A 78-year-old night watchman spent five hours locked in a steel locker at the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club in Broadmoor early Aug. 10 after encountering a burglar who threatened him at knifepoint.

Deputy Sheriff Burton Walker reported the burglar took three color TV sets valued at a total of $1,300, apparently carting them off in the watchman's car. A total of $100 cash also was taken.

Freed from imprisonment in the men's locker room at 6 a.m. after a janitor heard him pounding on the locker door was Frank D. Vallejo of Daily City, a 35-year employee of the club.

Vallejo, who was a cook at the club before retiring and becoming night watchman, told Walker that he parked outside the rear service entrance of the club when he arrived for work at about midnight Saturday.

He went to the second floor business office where he discovered the office door open and a duffle bag sitting outside. Believing the bag had been left by a member, Vallejo related, he placed it inside the office and locked the door.

The watchman then went to the downstairs bar where he heard a noise and encountered a man holding a knife. Vallejo said the man warned him not to look at him or he would kill him. He then directed the watchman back to the office and asked about the missing duffle bag. Vallejo explained and was directed to open the office.

The burglar inquired about money. Vallejo, who speaks limited English, explained that little money is kept at the club since members are billed monthly and that, besides, he didn't know the combination of the office safe. After taking $50 from Vallejo's wallet, the man ordered him to the men's locker room where he directed the watchman into a double-doored steel locker, then closed and locked the door.

County Tax Rate Falls 25 Cents

San Mateo County Manager M. D. Tarses informed members of the Board of Supervisors in a memo Monday that the county tax rate will drop 25.46 cents for 1975-76.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald said the new tax rate of $1.6629 per $100 of assessed valuation will give San Mateo County the lowest rate of any county in the state.

Tarses said that the tax rate will raise $45,134,402 for the county coffers, as compared to $43,546,470 from the $1.9175 rate for 1974-75.

Although the new tax rate is down some 13 per cent, assessed valuation in the county has risen some 16 per cent.

The total county expenditure budget for 1975-76 is $151,863,186.

The Board of Supervisors is scheduled to officially set the tax rate at its Sept. 2 meeting.

BART Rates To Increase

Commuters boarding Bay Area Rapid Transit trains in Daly City will pay an extra 20 cents to ride to San Francisco starting in November.

The BART board of directors voted, 5-2, in Oakland Thursday to increase the fares throughout the system by some 21 per cent.

Directors Robert Allen of Livermore and Nello Bianco of Richmond voted against the plan.

A plan to impose parking fees — ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents at several BART stations, was passed in a similar 5-2 vote, but will not become effective until July, 1976.

There will be no surcharge from Daly City to the East Bay. However, the general fare between Daly City and Fremont will increase by 20 cents, from the present $1.25, directors voted.

Wednesday, the BART board listened as a protest group jammed the hearing room.

Most said BART's current level of service does not justify a rate increase.

Directors Bianco and Allen said they voted against the fare hike because they feel BART should first provide night and weekend service to the district before upping the fares.

Recently appointed BART General Manager Frank Herringer said even with the increase, BART will sustain an operational deficit of some $3 million next year.

It was Herringer who recommended BART adopt a system-wide rate increase and not impose a surcharge to Daly City riders at this time.

The one-year delay on parking fees will give the district time to evaluate the impact such a move will have on neighborhoods in BART station areas, it was explained.

An average increase of 25 per cent had been proposed.

Here is a sampling of fare changes, with existing rates listed first: Fremont-Daly City, $1.25-$1.45; Fremont-San Francisco Civic Center, $1.25-$1.40; Lafayette-Montgomery Street, San Francisco, 95 cents-$1.20; Richmond-Montgomery Street, 85 cents-$1; Daly City-Montgomery Street, 35 cents-55 cents.

Help Wanted

Opera lovers and office workers are among the volunteers needed by local agencies, who have filed their requests with the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo.

EASTER SEALS — Driver needed to pick up patients and bring them to the center. A car is provided.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Aides to fill a variety of positions including thrift shop volunteers to work in the store Tuesday through Saturday, clinic workers in the San Mateo office, and family planning counselors. Training for the latter will begin soon.

UNITED WAY — Persons to help assemble kits at the San Mateo office for the fall campaign drive.

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA GUILD — Opera lovers to help with audio-visual opera presentations in junior high and upper elementary schools in San Mateo County during September and October. Volunteers will go in pairs with a pianist and talk to groups of children 11 through 14 years of age.

Transit Plan Revisions OK'd

The San Mateo County Transit District Board Wednesday accepted staff recommendations on revision of a general transit plan following lengthy debate on the wording of various sections.

Acting General Manager S. H. "Sid" Cantwell informed the board during a public hearing on the plan in Menlo Park that he included "should" in the sentence structure and deleted "shall" and "will."

He also included suggestions on the plan from several speakers appearing before the district board at previous meetings.

Another change was in the title of the plan — from "Interim General Transit Plan" to just plain "General Transit Plan."

Except for a few items, the plan, first brought out several weeks ago, remains about the same.

Also during the meeting, attorney Thomas M. Jenkins, of Hanson, Bridgett, Marcus and Jenkins, was appointed legal counsel to the transit district.

Jenkins will be reimbursed $50 per hour plus costs. Until the appointment of Jenkins, a former San Carlos councilman, the county district attorney's office advised the board on legal matters.

A high point of the transit plan is that the door has not been closed by either directors or staff on a fixed rail system down the Peninsula.

Item eight of the plan includes three paragraphs dealing with acquisition of municipal local bus systems (not those privately owned); route expansions and service upgrading as funding becomes available; and, "implementation of a fixed guideway rapid transit segment in San Mateo County."

After much rhetorical give and take on the subject, the words "need to" were injected before "implementation."

It first was bandied about whether there was actually a need for the words "need for," as suggested by Director C. Robert Payne.

Cantwell said "need for" is a "foregone conclusion," inasmuch as the Southern Pacific system is on the Peninsula.

The words "need to" finally were agreed upon.

The plan encompasses an outline of an ideal transit system, a system designed to whisk people from their neighborhoods to anywhere within the county.

There was no time period given when such a system would be functional.

Windmills Planned at Coyote Point Museum

Plans to erect windmills along the dikes of Coyote Point to pump salt water into the new Coyote Point Museum and solar energy collection units to warm and power the museum are in preliminary stages.

This was the report given to the county's Park and Recreation Commission Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Barbara Campbell, vice president of the museum's auxiliary.

Mrs. Campbell emphasized plans are still in the very preliminary stages, but the National Science Foundation and the Federal Energy Agency have promised encouragement.

The windmills placed along a breakwater would not only reduce winds, she said, but would pump salt water from the bay into the museum for tidal pools inside, where starfish and other tidal types of life would be exhibited.

The solar energy units would be placed on the upper level of the new museum, which is to show all facets of San Mateo County's natural features and history.

John T. Brook Jr., county director of parks and recreation, said he could make no recommendations at this time because no solid proposal has been submitted, but, he agreed the concept is a good one.

Brook reported the county has dropped plans to purchase 240 acres north of Bear Gulch Road in Woodside as an access area to Wunderlich Estate and is allowing an interim option on the property to lapse so a building moratorium can be lifted.

Drive-In Expansion Deferred

A proposal to add two more screens at Spruce Drive-In Theater led to confusion at the South San Francisco Planning Commission meeting Wednesday.

Conditions set by City Engineer Robert Yee led to the complications and a delay in approving the Syfy Enterprises project.

Yee sought to have theater ownership pave a street adjacent to the drive-in property, North Canal Street between Spruce Avenue and the theater's existing driveway.

The commission and the theater's representatives, however, said all merchants who use that section of North Canal should be required to participate in the paving project.

Theater representative Daniel Modena, an attorney, also said Spruce management intends to close-off the exit to North Canal. All traffic will exit at the Spruce Avenue gates, he said.

"I have no objection to paying our fair share," Modena said. "But why give the burden to us?"

Yee estimated paving costs at approximately $2,500.

He said there are no specific problems due to the lack of paving at present.

Yee also told the theater management he prefers the North Canal exit remain open — even if the street is not paved.

"I would rather keep North Canal exit open and forget paving than close off the exit to avoid paving," Yee said.

Yee also suggested underground drainage be established and that the applicant dedicate ten feet along Spruce Avenue to the city for future widening.

Modena said the applicant is not the owner of the property and can not dedicate any property.

They did, however, agree to drainage improvements on the property.

The theater applicants and staff agreed to meet and iron out the paving problem before the Aug. 26 planning commission meeting.

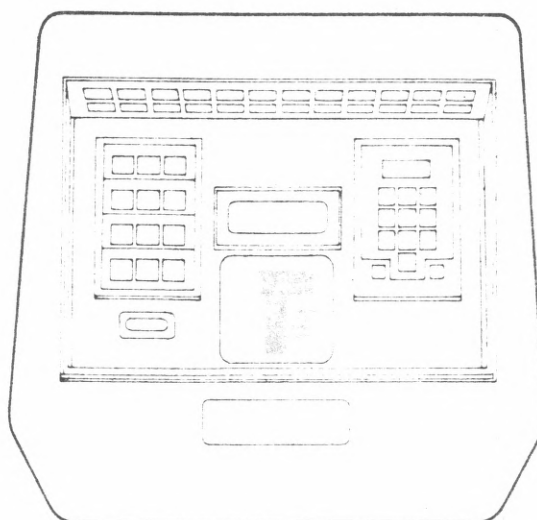

Other commission action included approval:

- Of the Colma Creek Enhancement Project including a project from Spruce Avenue to Colma Town limits and realignment of Mission Road between Oak and Chestnut

- To create two parcels at the northwest corner of Maple Avenue and Palm Terrace.

EOC Pledges to Feed the Hungry

No one is going to be turned away from one of the county's four nutritional centers for senior citizens — even if the law has to be bent a little.

That was the county's Economic Opportunity Commission's decision Thursday night after the program director, Kathleen Haney, reported that although the state has approved $269,155 in funds for the program in the county, officials have ruled that no one can be fed beyond what the program is funded for.

Commissioners expressed shock and dismay at the thought that if a hungry person wandered into a center he would have to be turned away because budgeted funds did not provide for him.

Commissioner Robert Rippeto, county director of social services, moved the program be limited to the number of persons for which it is funded, a motion he later retracted when it was decided to allow Mrs. Haney to seek additional funds from outside organizations such as service clubs.

The program now provides 450 meals a day in four centers from Daly City to East Palo Alto.

"What are you going to do," asked Commissioner Dolores Randall, "tell the director not to feed these people?"

By limiting the number of persons who may be served, Commissioner James Frear charged, the state was attempting to place a lid on the program.

"It's going to be really tough to tell someone to leave," Commissioner Miguel Maldonado predicted.

"You can't turn people away when they come for meals," Commissioner Maria Luna asserted.

"Would you like to jeopardize the entire program?" asked Mrs. Helen S. Kerwin, commission chairman.

"Are the Bechtel Corp. and Standard Oil in complete compliance with all the laws?" Commissioner Moses Guillory replied.

"If we can't feed everyone, we might as well give up the program," Bishop George Gillis, another commissioner, commented. "Fifty men come in and another one turns up. Are we going to turn him away?"

Ida Berk, director of the East Palo Alto poverty information center, said Henry Anthony of the East Palo Alto Municipal Council had asked about reports of PG&E, the telephone company and the water company shutting off service to dependent families, "particularly on the day preceding 'check day'."

"Cut-offs are everyone's problem, especially the poor," commented Edward R. Becks, executive director of the commission.

It was indicated representatives of the commission will attend any hearing on the problem scheduled by the Public Utilities Commission.

Mrs. Berk was authorized to prepare an application for a grant to insulate some 100 homes in the county after she reported the federal government has allocated $16.5 million for such projects to conserve energy.

Becks reviewed the financial problems faced by his department because federal revenue-sharing programs end at different dates. He said he has been ordered, from time to time, by County Manager M. D. Tarses to try to better coordinate different programs, but as the EOC has not received any funds as yet for these programs it is difficult to do.

The board also approved Thursday a $166,512 Head Start program, up 7.5 per cent from last year, and agreed to raise salaries 7.5 per cent if possible, although Becks indicated maximum wage hikes will likely be more in the range of 3 per cent with the funds available.

Over Easy

Those Missing House Plants

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Staff Writer

The house plant is reputed to be among the most sensitive of God's creatures.

If you utter a harsh word to a Dwarf Pomegranate or a Wandering Jew, you are apt to warp the poor thing's delicate psyche.

The house plant can become a couch case if you mess with its feelings. Studies have attempted to prove that a house plant will respond nicely to soft music and persistent doses of tender, loving care.

A kind phrase directed at a Holy Basil can reportedly work wonders.

But yell at your plant and you risk serious nervous damage. A ration of nasty talk could conceivably cause your favorite fern to shed all over your coffee table. In front of your mother-in-law, yet.

Here in suburbia, the house plant is beginning to take on all of the not-so-subtle aspects of a pet. And it is a companion that you don't have to housebreak.

So, you can imagine the consternation which has been caused by a recent outbreak of thievery directed at house plants along the mid-Peninsula.

"There has been a marked increase in these thefts in the last year," laments Inspector Jim Eldredge of the Burlingame Police Department.

"It hasn't been something we can really sink our teeth into yet, but it's getting there. We haven't started an M.O. (modus operandi) file on house plant cases but we might have to."

The creation of a Bureau of Missing House Plants boggles the mind but you never know.

According to Eldredge, the thefts are becoming increasingly blatant. Some of them, in Burlingame and elsewhere in San Mateo County, are occurring in broad daylight.

"Sometimes," Eldredge explains, "the thief will yank a plant right out of the ground."

Because of their growing popularity, house plants are worth a considerable piece of change today.

Eldredge says he has a feeling that some of the stolen plants eventually wind up for sale at plant parties and at garage sales.

Says he, "These plants are in demand and they are very marketable."

He adds that there is no particular pattern to these cases but he is certain that they are not the work of youngsters.

"Some of the plants that are taken you wouldn't believe. We had one situation where someone made off with a huge plant in a container which together weighed hundreds of pounds."

One Burlingame woman hung several of her plants out on her front porch. She watered them, left them for a while to drain and recline in the sun and then returned to check on them.

They were all gone, snatched away while she was working inside her home.

Eldredge says there has been "an epidemic" of lawn furniture rip-offs as well. "But we caught one guy involved in that," he says.

Maybe the most flagrant case of plant thievery occurred not too long ago in San Jose.

There, a new sod lawn was unrolled at a couple's home. They went off for the weekend. When they came back, they found that someone had rolled the sod back up and driven away with it.

If that lawn suffered a nervous breakdown, at least we'll know why.

Divorce Seminar

A 10-week seminar for divorced men and women entitled, "Creative Divorce: A New Opportunity for Personal Growth," will be offered by the Family Service Agency, starting Sept. 8.

The fee is $50 payable in weekly installments. Sessions will be held on Monday evenings from 7 to 9, continuing to Nov. 10. The meetings will be held at the agency offices, 1870 El Camino Real, Burlingame.

Two clinical staff members of the agency will conduct the sessions. They are Betty Kaplan, M.S.W., and Cheri Jern, M.S.W. Topics will cover such problems as "letting go of the past, unraveling financial and credit problems, coping with children's reactions and dealing with old and new friendships."

A Leader Sought By FISH

By JANET PARKER

More than 200 persons are trying to be good neighbors in the South San Francisco area.

Their efforts, however, will fail if they are unable to find a new coordinator for their agency, FISH.

Penny Burke, acting coordinator, will leave the post this month. No one willing to take over the coordinator responsibilities has been located.

"FISH is now at the point it's about to die," she said. "We will have to fold if there is no volunteer for the position in the next month."

The FISH organization is one of several in the county serving community members in an emergency.

They provide food, babysitting, bathing and visiting for the elderly, and household cleaning assistance for more than 90 referrals a month in San Bruno and South San Francisco.

Separate agencies operate in Burlingame and San Mateo. Daly City residents, also, occasionally are helped by the South San Francisco-based group but food donations are limited to South City residents.

Mrs. Burke accidentally stumbled upon the role of coordinator. She was involved in FISH as a food coordinator when the head of the group at that time, a friend, asked her to take over the job. She agreed, but only for two months.

Previously, she was Spruce School PTA president. Her children now attend All Soul's School.

By September, she said, she no longer will be able to handle the FISH task.

Churches in the area already have made a plea for a coordinator. But so far, no one has come forth.

The FISH organization in Pacifica folded for some time, but a woman in that city now is reorganizing the agency. That group also had trouble finding someone to take over the responsibilities of the organization, Mrs. Burke said.

People want to help with FISH, she said, but being a coordinator is a demanding job.

FISH volunteers are "linemen," answering phones in their homes, or "fieldmen," performing the emergency duties. All volunteer work is anonymous.

mously performed and delegated through a 24-hour switchboard. Calls rarely come, she said, in the middle of the night.

FISH is organized by Catholic and Protestant churches in the area.

The name FISH is taken from the ancient Greek symbol used as a symbol of Christian faith. The first American chapter was formed in Massachusetts in 1964 and the South San Francisco branch was established in June, 1972.

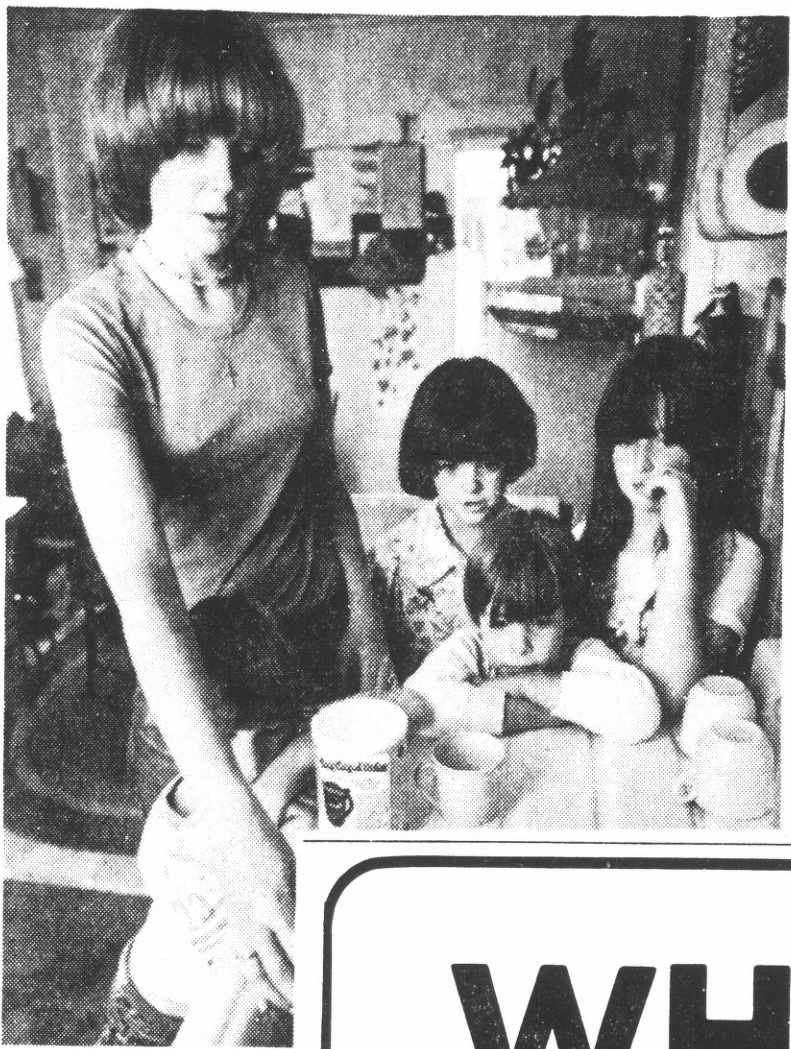

Its only cost is an answering service to monitor calls.

The coordinator organizes volunteers' schedules and helps out with emergency service "on the spur of the moment," Mrs. Burke said.

Team Eyes Money

A fact-finding team appointed in the San Bruno Park School District is scheduled to meet Aug. 25 to determine how much money the district can give its teachers.

The team heard presentation in a closed-door session Tuesday from representatives of the board of trustees and of the Certificated Employees Council.

The two negotiating parties declared a stalemate July 30 and sought the assistance of the team.

Associate Supt. F. H. Jackson said, however, that there's no deadline on preparation of the report.

A member of the fact-finding team San Francisco Atty. William Eaton, said he expects the report could be released in one week to 10 days following their scheduled meeting.

He expects the team to reach a conclusion during one meeting.

"The principal issue of impasse is if the district can afford any greater salary and fringe benefit increase than the board has offered," Eaton said.

The teachers have requested a 7 per cent salary increase. The board has offered 3 per cent plus 2 per cent from contingency funds if the money is available from state and federal sources.

Teachers had originally requested a 10 per cent salary increase.

"The parties presented each side in the presence of the other party and had the opportunity to have questions raised from witnesses for each side," Eaton said.

The fact-finder said the session was a "full and fair presentation from each side."

Eaton noted board policy allows for public or private presentation of the fact-finding report. The team itself will make that determination, he said.

"It would appear at the present time at least part of the impasse is based on misunderstandings. We are in hopes we can make some contribution to eliminating or removing such misunderstandings if they do exist," Eaton said.

The team, he added, is very much aware of the long-range implications of the report.

Jackson said the school budget approved Aug. 1 does not include a teacher salary increase. If the board does grant a salary increase, he said, the money will have to be shifted from other sources.

The district appointed Dr. William Monahan of Johnson and Monahan administrative services in Los Gatos, and the teachers appointed William McMullin, a California Teachers' Association financial consultant, to serve on the team.

DC Tables BART Area Rezoning Proposal

Daly City planning commissioners Tuesday tabled a controversial request to rezone several parcels of land around the Bay Area Rapid Transit station on John Daly Drive from residential to commercial use.

Opponents of the zone change, which would require an amendment to the city general plan, charged such action by the commission would be the first step in eventual takeover of homes in the area by the redevelopment agency, something members of the Original Daly

City Protective Association have fought the past three years.

More than 250 persons jammed the Civic Center council chambers to participate in the meeting.

Most indicated they were opposed to the zone change.

Speakers several times were interrupted by catcalls or applause, apparently depending on which view was being expressed before the five-member commission.

The area south of the BART station is predominantly single-family, older homes.

Although only 5.4 acres would be affected by the new zoning, population of the affected area is estimated at 180 persons, according to a staff report.

Total assessed valuation of all properties in the four-block strip fronting John Daly Drive, between Miriam Street and Niantic Avenue is $1,145,375, and includes 68 parcels.

Both the Daly City Mission Merchants Association and the city's Redevelopment Project Area Committee have asked that the rezoning be delayed.

The PAC believes the matter should be delayed pending completion of the current general plan revision study now underway, and until at least tentative plans concerning redevelopment in the city can be drawn up.

Mission Street merchants said at a meeting last month that construction of a commercial complex in the BART area would mean direct competition for business with the Mission Street business community for patrons.

The staff report on the issue denies this, and ventures that office workers in the new commercial tract would frequent Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard businesses.

Frank Spadarella, chairman of PAC, read a prepared statement asking for the delay.

Several opponents of the plan, most members of the ODCPA, wanted the issue buried, not to be exhumed at a later date.

Conrad Pavellas said the ODCPA had battled the city over the development issue since 1972. He said he was dismayed that after the redevelopment agency (the City Council) delisted homes from the redevelopment plan. Attempts were being made to revive it, albeit on a smaller scale.

In his report, Assistant City Planner Tom Miller said the staff is of the opinion that several potentially negative impacts identified through the Environmental Impact Report process do not outweigh the overall benefits inherent in the proposed change of zoning.

Polonsky Hits BART Board

Sharp words were exchanged in Oakland Tuesday between Daly City City Atty. Albert Polonsky and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District Board of Directors during a public hearing on BART station parking fees.

BART directors want to impose a 50-cent parking fee at the Daly City station, coupled with a 15-cent surcharge to be paid by riders traveling to and from the Daly City station.

Polonsky said federal regulations governing parking fees clearly stipulate that these funds only can be used for lighting, police protection and maintenance of the rapid transit station parking lot.

Director Elmer Cooper said the federal law did not pertain in this. He told Polonsky if he thought he had a case, "I'll see you in court."

Polonsky said later he had asked BART for a breakdown on its maintenance at the Daly City station. To date he has not received any reply, Polonsky said.

Several East Bay communities, including El Cerrito, also protested the proposed rate hikes.

In the past, Daly City has said it would agree to reasonable fees for parking.

However, it was feared by city officials that imposition of a parking charge would force motorists onto city streets in the BART area.

There is already a critical parking problem at the station and a new $6.5 million multi-level parking garage is planned for the station, Polonsky said.

Cooper indicated Daly City might have a say in charges at the new station, but it did not legally have a right to dictate how the present parking lot is run.

Polonsky argued that the city must call BART's attention to the federal regulations on this.

El Cerrito officials said they will insist on an Environmental Impact Report be filed, inasmuch as parking charges would force cars onto city streets and cause traffic congestion and pollution.

The board is expected to make its decision Thursday in Oakland.

Camper Code Revision

Recreational vehicle owners in South San Francisco won the first round Aug. 12 in their fight to defeat a proposed ordinance dealing with parking and storage of their campers and trailers.

More than 20 persons paraded before the commission, in study session for two hours, objecting to problems they said the ordinance would cause for them.

One person spoke in favor of the proposal.

The vehicle owners succeeded in delaying passage of the proposal, and in forming a committee with city staff to evaluate the ordinance and alternatives.

City Planner David Hale said the proposed ordinance was developed as a result of certain problems recreational vehicles have caused in South San Francisco.

He cited blockage of entrances and access areas in emergency situations, illegal human habitation, reduction of fire separation between buildings, and, when parked on streets, the hazard caused to city street cleaners.

He also said the vehicles can harbor rodents, weeds and pests when parked in one area for a long time.

The vehicle owners, however, objected primarily to parking and storage restrictions. According to the proposal, the vehicles must be at least 10 feet from the sidewalk edge, three feet from any side property line, five feet from any rear property line and six feet from any main building.

Many said the ordinance would deny them the right to park their vehicles adjacent to their own homes. They contended the recreational vehicles should be controlled on an individual basis.

Mrs. Annette Balthazar said an ordinance should be developed to prevent "the bad guys" from moving their vehicles into town, living in them and avoiding property taxes.

"We are regulated by so many codes and ordinances now, it is not fair to regulate one vehicle against another," she said.

The existing city ordinance does not allow on-street parking of recreational vehicles. The new ordinance would continue that regulation.

Resident Lawrence Brogan said he has $60,000 invested in his vehicle, in addition to a $133 state license.

"I'd like to keep my mobile home, but I'd hate to be banished to another city," he said.

Several residents cited the economic burden of storing their vehicles elsewhere if they were unable to store them in their front yards.

Ray said if he had to store his vehicle at a cost of $5 to $35 a month, he would have to sell it and so would many other residents.

"We're asking for nothing more than for the right to something we call ours," he said. "You're going to propose an economic problem."

"Let's keep the hippies and transients from living in these vehicles and not paying taxes. Let us keep our vehicles. Don't force us to get rid of them," Ray said.

Other speakers pointed out what they said are more important hazards within the city. They noted commercial vehicles doubleparked on Grand Avenue, lumber piled behind a lumber yard where children play and high hedges blocking driveway views in front of homes.

Transit Head

Applicants Now

Narrowed to 8

Supervisor Edward J. Baccio, chairman of the San Mateo County Transit District, has announced that directors have narrowed the field of applicants for general manager to eight.

None of the finalists, Baccio said, is from San Mateo County.

Directors huddled for several hours in executive session Thursday night to review resumes of the original 217 applicants.

Baccio said that the eight finalists will be individually interviewed at a hotel near San Francisco on Aug. 23. A decision could come within a few days after that, he said.

County Engineer Sidney H. Cantwell has been acting general manager of the district, which was created by the voters last fall.

Changing the Way America Cooks

Is cooking in Microwave ovens hazardous to your health because of radiation seepage?

"No," say representatives of Litton Microwave Cooking, one of the world's leading manufacturers and marketers of commercial and consumer microwave ovens.

Litton spokesmen were in San Mateo Thursday to dispel the public's radiation fears about its products and to introduce the firm's new lines to dealers and members of the press.

Liz Guccione, sales training manager for the company, tackled the question about radiation in microwave cooking. "Unlike X-rays," she said, "microwave ovens contain non-ionizing radiation comparable to radio waves." Microwave radiation, she explained, is nothing more than heat sensation which is attracted solely to molecules within food. Heat results from this activity or friction, and the process is harmless, she says.

The form of energy microwave ovens use is not new. It has been studied for 50 years. "Many people don't realize that microwave ovens have been marketed for 18 years, since they've become popular for home use only in the last four years," said Miss Guccione.

Popular is almost an understatement considering that Litton alone increased its output of consumer microwave ovens from 40,000 units in 1971 to 900,000 units this year.

"It's conceivable we'll sell over a million by the end of 1975," projected Dan Cavalier, president of the Litton sales and marketing division in Minnesota. If the trend continues as surveys indicate, Cavalier predicts that within 24 months, 10.8 million more Americans will have invested in microwave ovens.

The general public has become so interested in microwave cooking that next month a three-day seminar is planned in Minneapolis to acquaint consumers with up-to-date information on the alternative means of food preparation. Home economists, radiation experts and merchandisers will address the participants, and Litton (whose headquarters are conveniently located in the Twin Cities) will offer tours to its plants.

What's causing cooks to chuck their conventional ranges in favor of microwave products?

"Microwave cooking has become important in times like these," said Cavalier, "because of its energy saving qualities. At the average rate of 3 cents per kilowatt hour, a family of four can save $26 a year by using a microwave oven instead of a conventional electric range."

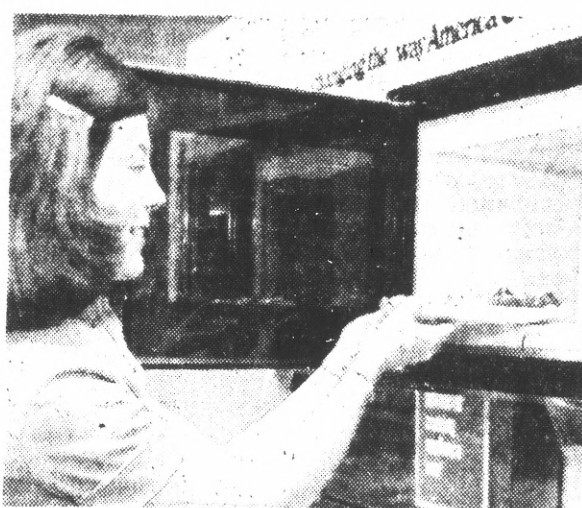

"Microwave cooking also fits our lifestyle," Cavalier continued. "It gives cooks an opportunity to prepare foods faster, and is therefore a product of our times."

To illustrate just how fast microwave ovens cook food, Litton home economists prepared meals in the company's new ovens before and during Thursday's session.

The scent of fresh baked goods permeated the meeting room at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel where a large table was arranged with goodies. The feast included a 22-pound turkey prepared in an hour and 50 minutes (as compared with 7 hours and 20 minutes the conventional method).

Quiche Lorraine cooked in 13 minutes (compared with 35 to 40 minutes the conventional way). And Angel Food cake done 24 minutes the Microwave way (as compared to 50 minutes the conventional way).

To provide cooks with greater flexibility in microwave cooking, Litton has devised a combination microwave and electric range in a single standard size oven. The two may sound like an unlikely team, however the company stands behind the "marriage" saying that "microwaves penetrate the food and cook

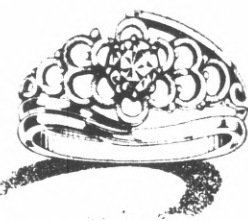

FOR MICROWAVE FANS

Home economist Judy Thompson places a tray of hors d'oeuvres into the microwave oven section of one of Litton's new double oven ranges. This model, No. 988, features a conventional electric self-cleaning oven below, and smoothtop burners that glow when in use. In keeping with new Underwriters Laboratory safety standards, all new Litton oven models have buttons that must be pushed in first before they can be turned on.

Chief Urges Support

The President of the San Mateo County Police Chiefs Association has called for public support of several law enforcement bills presently before the State Assembly Criminal Justice Committee.

John J. Norton, Foster City's police chief, said "six extremely important bills" have passed the Senate and now await action by the Assembly committee. The measures are as follows:

- Mandatory prison sentences for repeat burglars (Senate Bill 237).

- Mandatory prison sentences for persons convicted of selling heroin (SB 269).

- Mandatory prison terms for persons convicted of using or carrying a firearm during the commission of a dangerous felony (SB 278).

- Imposition of the death penalty when a prisoner serving a life term is convicted of murdering a non-inmate (SB 486).

- Make battery upon a person 65-years-of-age or older a felony rather than a misdemeanor (SB 554).

- Increase the penalty by two years imprisonment for those who commit or attempt to commit a crime on persons 65-years-old or older, blind people, quadriplegic or paraplegic victims.

Norton called for public groups to organize and place pressure on the Assembly to pass the measures.

"In effect, the citizenry must make the members of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee responsive to the needs of the community," he added.

Airman Lawrence A. Quinn, son of retired Air Force Technical Sergeant and Mrs. John F. Quinn of 21 Southdale Ave., Daly City, was trained to repair current Air Force jet aircraft. Completion of the course enables him to receive academic credits through the Community College of the Air Force. The airman now goes to Nellis AFB, Nev., for duty with a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

Airman Quinn is a 1973 graduate of Westmoor High School.

SSF Bicentennial Unit Plans Events

The South San Francisco American Bicentennial Observance Committee announces a series of festive occasions designed to kick-off South San Francisco's observance of the 200th birthday of this country.

These events, the family skating party, the bicentennial ball and a wine tasting party and wine making demonstration, are primarily fund raising, social occasions which, if successful, will enable the Bicentennial Committee to initiate projects of a more substantial and beneficial nature to South San Francisco, committee spokesmen said.

The family skating party will be held at the Grand Arena Roller Skating Rink Aug. 24 from 6-9 p.m. Family tickets admitting up to five family members for $2.50 are available from committee member Barbara Hitchcock at the City Hall information desk and at the Grand Arena box office, 213 East Grand Ave.

The party will feature family fun, games and prizes.

Sept. 20, a committee headed by Terry Mirri and Roberta Teglia and composed of members Bob Bovero, Kay Bregante, Rudi Cortez, Claire D'Amico, Barbara Hitchcock, Marjorie Lockwood, Al Martin and John Tanti will sponsor a "Bicentennial Ball," an evening of dinner and dancing to the music of Pete Damante and his orchestra. Reservations for tickets, priced at $19.76 a couple, may be made through Marjorie Lockwood at The Lockwood Office Equipment Company, 339 Baden Ave.

Through the chairmanship of Basil Cavaleri, the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the October wine tasting party and wine making demonstration. Details are being finalized for this event which tentatively is scheduled for Oct. 12, the traditional Columbus Day.

Among the projects the Bicentennial Committee hopes to see accomplished in South San Francisco during the Bicentennial year are initiation of the restoration of the city's 1916 fire engine; publication of a slide program dealing with local history to be used in our local school system; exhibition of original photographs of local historical significance and commissioning photography classes at the two local high schools to photograph present day South San Francisco as seen through the eyes of its youth; sponsorship of a local chapter of the "Friends of the Library" organization. Also planned are the purchase of books and records for addition to the present library inventory; children's projects in art, literature and music emphasizing American heritage, to be accomplished in conjunction with the South San Francisco Unified School District; a multi-cultural fair highlighting the melting pot aspect of American history; a children's fire hydrant painting project similar to successful projects initiated in Belmont and San Carlos; preparation of a time capsule containing Bicentennial memorabilia; a day of religious observances throughout the churches of the city, commemorating the right to freedom of religion as guaranteed by the Constitution and an Americana type parade followed by a community picnic and dance in September 1976.

Committee members

accepting specific assignments to date include Ken Austin overseeing the art, music and literature projects to be coordinated with the school district; William Borba, Basil Cavaleri and Al Martin planning the September 1976 parade, picnic and dance; Virginia Boston and Kay Bregante of the South San Francisco Women's Club heading activities dealing with efforts to restore the 1916 fire engine; Dr. Caesar Churchwell, Al Weinstein and Nelva Martinez organizing the multi-cultural fair; Rev. Charles Durkin chairing a committee to develop a religious community observance commemorating freedom of religion.

Also assigned are Basil Cavaleri chairing the wine tasting party to be held in conjunction with the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. Gregory McHugh heading up the time capsule project; Jean Altizio preparing the historic photographs exhibition; Roberta Teglia investigating the formation of a "Friends of the Library" chapter; Wally Pettigrew, Bicentennial Committee treasurer; and Claire D'Amico and Barbara Hitchcock organizing the skating party.

Residents of South San Francisco wishing to work on Bicentennial projects should contact the committee members or Terry Mirri and Roberta Teglia, Bicentennial Committee co-chairmen.

Joint 'Downtown Campus'

People who work in downtown San Francisco will have a new opportunity beginning this fall to take college courses near their work, at a location only a few minutes walk from the heart of the business district.

Starting in September, San Francisco State University and Cogswell College will operate a joint "Downtown Campus" in San Francisco's financial center.

The two schools will offer a variety of business, engineering and liberal arts courses at Cogswell's Stockton Street headquarters on Nob Hill (formerly the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building).

The area offers convenient transportation to students from the city, East Bay and Peninsula, with BART, MUNI, the Southern Pacific Terminal and even the cable cars all available within a few blocks of the college.

Classes will be held at Cogswell College, 600 Stockton St., on weekday evenings and on Saturdays. The two schools will follow slightly different schedules for the fall term. San Francisco State's courses will run from September 8 to December 19, while classes offered by Cogswell will begin September 22 and end December 12.

Course titles reflect the variety available: Revolutionary China; Legal Research; Public Speaking; Small Business Management; Questions and Answers in the Bay Area Environment; Computer Programming; and Engineering Law.

Credits can be earned at the Downtown Campus toward B.A. and B.S. degrees, as well as toward several special programs: Bachelor of Science in Engineering Technology; Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration; and the Paralegal Studies Certificate Program.

In addition, Cogswell will operate TEAC (Technical Education Assistance Program) to upgrade the basic skills of students needing special preparation for admission to Cogswell's degree programs.

Many of the courses are open to members of the public without special entry requirements.

Cogswell College, founded in 1887 as a non-profit charitable trust, is a four-year college of Engineering Technology awarding baccalaureate and associate degrees in Electronics, Mechanical, Civil/Structural and Safety and Fire Protection Engineering Technology.

San Francisco State University is a member of the California State University and Colleges System. It offers degrees through the Ph.D.

Class schedules and registration information for the Downtown Campus program can be obtained from either Cogswell College, 600 Stockton Street, S.F., tel. (415) 433-1994, or from San Francisco State University Extension Program, 1600 Holloway Avenue, S.F., tel. (415) 469-1373.

ROP COLOR

ROP Color makes food advertising even more effective. Many advertisers report that the increased readership and sales produced by color advertising makes it a profitable investment.

The Times has just introduced a new frequency discount contract available to ROP Color advertisers that makes ROP Color advertising even more attractive. For example, run 12 ROP Color ads per year and receive 1 Color Premium FREE. See your Times' representative for complete details.

Good morning, good cooks.

Today is . . . Make A Terrific Casserole Day. And in order to observe this special day, let's make this low cost family main dish featuring beef, vegetables and an attractive biscuit topping.

Eye appeal is important in planning our menus, because how a dish looks has a great deal to do with how it is received. Thinking along those lines, this casserole will be very well received since the biscuits used for the topping are cut and shaped to form a sunburst, sprinkled with sesame seeds and baked to a golden brown.

SUNBURST GROUND BEEF CASSEROLE

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
- 1 can (16 ounces) green beans, drained
- OR 1 can whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 cup cubed pasteurized process cheese
- 1 can refrigerated buttermilk or country style biscuits
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 Tablespoon sesame seeds

Set oven 350 degrees

In large frying pan brown one pound ground beef and one-fourth cup onions; drain. Add one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two cans tomato sauce, 1 can drained beans and one cup cheese cubes and simmer.

Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Cut hole in center of each biscuit to resemble doughnuts.

Pour hot meat mix into a 2-quart casserole. Dip the biscuit rings into the fourth cup melted butter and pull each ring slightly to form an oval. Place around the edge of casserole. (Remember, we are being artistic, and the effect we want is the biscuits to resemble a sunburst or the petals of a flower.) To form the center of the sunburst or flower, dip the biscuit holes and arrange in the center of the casserole. Sprinkle the tablespoon sesame seeds over all.

Bake in 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes until biscuits are a golden brown.

Skyline to Offer Classes For Women

Skyline College is offering Women in Transition, a unique block of courses designed for women who have not been to school in some time.

Classes are held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at mid-day times.

No admission tests, no tuition and no high school diplomas are required. In addition to coursework, vocational planning, counseling and help with individual goal-setting are provided in a warm, supportive atmosphere.

There will be two orientation meetings explaining the program—Thursday at 1 p.m., and Tuesday, at 9:30 a.m., in Bldg. 8, room 8219, on Skyline College campus.

If interested, call Joyce Unger at the school, 355-7900, or evenings, 665-2304.

Samuel Chandler

Speaking of etiquette, the testy George Jean Nathan wrote "the most delightful of companions is he who combines the mind of a gentleman with the emotions of a bum."

For some reason that I can't explain many Americans fancy themselves more comfortable with a bum than a gentleman. For them good manners represent a restraint to ones freedom of action. Like Hagen they feel that etiquette is the science of petty sacrifices. As Elizabeth Post writes, "it is not uncommon today to hear someone ask 'Isn't etiquette outdated, or hypocritical?'"

To respond to such people, Mrs. Post writes that "all good manners are based on thoughtfulness for others, and if everyone lived the Golden Rule there would be no bad manners in the world." Quoting an old rhyme she reminds her readers that.

"Politeness is to do and say

The kindest thing in the kindest way."

"Good manners," she writes, "simply make one more attractive."

Etiquette is a family tradition for Elizabeth Post. As the wife of Emily Post's grandson, William G. Post, she has become the editor of "The New Emily Post's Etiquette." In doing so she has worked with one thought in mind: "to design a book to help you." In no way is it intended to complicate your life, to make it more difficult or less fun. Rather, it should make life easier and smoother.

Mrs. Post does not expect her readers to follow her book as though it were a law. Instead she asks each reader to consider what advice is applicable to his circumstances, and then adopt those parts of the book that will be of most help to him.

The New Emily Post's Etiquette, like the previous editions, is one of America's most valuable books. It is designed to guide one in such matters as correspondence, traveling and weddings. It tells what to do on special occasions and how to dress for them. It is a guide that tells about table manners and settings and how to conduct yourself when you are a host or hostess or when you are a guest. It directs you with such thorny problems as wedding gifts, when to smoke, how much to tip, what to do with pets, how to treat household help, and so on and on.

Perhaps there is no better source than "Emily Post" for the proper address to use for government officials and for what to say in introductions, greetings and farewells. Surely there are few guides that tell so plainly what dishes to put on the table for a luncheon or a seated dinner. The new Emily Post goes so far as to outline the sequence of dishes that are served and the beverages that complement each occasion.

Surely, then, if good manners are as Homer wrote "the sign of the gentlest hearts and the bravest minds," "The New Emily Post's Etiquette" is a most valuable book.

Art Exhibit Set At City Center

The artworks of Tyler James Hoare are on exhibit at the "Octagon Gallery" in the Daly City Civic Center, 90th and Sullivan Streets, Daly City through Sept. 5.

The show consists of 16 xerox prints and seven wall sculptures.

The gallery is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hoare's works have been shown in more than 200 exhibitions in the United States and Europe and are represented in the permanent collections of the Oakland Museum, The California College of Arts and Crafts, the State University of New York and the United States Information Agency in Washington, D.C.

Hoare, who is widely known as a guest lecturer at Bay Area universities, began to use newly developed xerox and 3m-color machines late in 1970 and has been a leader in developing these prints as an important new art medium. His sculptures are fashioned from plywood panels, metal scraps and found objects.

Born in Missouri in 1940, Hoare moved to the Bay Area in 1965.

The Octagon Gallery is part of the Mini-Gallery system of the San Mateo County Arts Council.

This exhibit was arranged by Hayward King, the council's gallery consultant whose services were made possible by a grant from the California Arts Commission.

Registration At Westmoor

The Westmoor High School Counseling Department will be registering students who are new to the school on the afternoon of Aug. 29, Sept. 3.

This service will be available on an appointment basis and students are encouraged to telephone the school at 756-3434 for an appointment.

Students are to bring transfer papers and report card from last school attended.

All students new to Westmoor may attend the school's annual orientation assembly in the boy's gym Aug. 29 at 8:30 a.m.

GIRL SCOUTING

SCOUT AMERICA '76, the celebration of the American Revolution Bicentennial scheduled for April 3 and 4, 1976, in the regional shopping center of the Serramonte enclosed mall is available for troop enrollment according to General Chairman Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach.

Troop invitation forms are available from the Association Bicentennial Liaisons in each Northern San Mateo and San Francisco community. These people are the members of the planning committee.

Representing the Associations of San Francisco are volunteer Helen Edwards and professional staff member Vashtye Ferguson. Tri-City, the areas of Millbrae, Hillsborough and Burlingame, are represented by Mrs. Nancy Weber of Millbrae.

The planning committee also includes Carole Ann Scott, Daly City; Carol Miller, South San Francisco; Marge McCoy of Pacifica, and Iris Fallo of San Bruno. Ex-officio members include Nancy Appling, San Mateo County northern area field coordinator for the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

MISS PEGGY HORNG, a Taiwanese Girl Guide, in this country to attend the Kansas City, Mo. "Aides to Handicapped Girls" wider opportunity sessions, was the recent guest of Daly City Senior Troop 13, Mariner interest.

Advised by Mrs. Margaret Damon of Broadmoor, the Senior Scouts took Miss Horng ice skating at the 48th Avenue rink in San Francisco. Miss Horng had never been ice skating before.

Local Scouts attending included Patty Byrne, Leana Medina, Kim Gustafson, Claudia Pratt, Ellen and Diane Ridge, Demary Dominguez, Theresa Clark, Janice Hale, Margaret Moran and Marian Fitzpatrick.

Adults present included Ferne Dahlin, Jackie Sharpe, Denise Lapachet, Helen Rogers, Darice Robinson, Laura Ridge and Jane Stewart.

The troop adjourned to Farrell's after the outing.

Hare Krishna Accord

The clash between members of the Hare Krishna religious sect and airport officials eased somewhat this week, as attorneys for the two sides reached a compromise on activities at San Francisco International Airport.

But points which could not be ironed out will be argued at a court hearing Aug. 29 at 4 p.m. before San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn.

Ironically, Cohn's cousin is with the San Francisco district attorneys office and is one of a team trying to convince the judge to make certain rulings. Cohn attempted to disqualify himself Thursday, but attorneys for both sides stated that they wanted him to hear the case.

The compromise was presented to Cohn. It was worked out as a result of a temporary injunction issued earlier this month by Judge Robert D. Miller banning the sale of items by the religious sect without a permit. That injunction was lifted Thursday pursuant to the compromise and pending hearing.

The sides agreed:

- Hare Krishnans will not solicit or peddle their goods at escalators or at ticket lines.
- A maximum of 10 of the sect can participate at one time.
- Airport officials won't interfere unless someone complains.

N. County Seniors Aid Program in Jeopardy

By JOHN HORGAN
For nearly a year, Pat Coates and Sandi Piccini of San Bruno have labored to feed senior citizens in the North County and in San Francisco.

They estimate that by mid-September they will be feeding some 3,000 of the elderly through their innovative co-op system.

By buying food in bulk, they can provide people with fruits and vegetables for between 98 cents and $1.25 per person per week.

The two women, along with a part-time secretary and delivery driver, operate out of a warehouse in South San Francisco's industrial park.

But snags have developed in their Food Advisory Service. And the main one is financial.

Frankly, they are running out of money. Fast.

Says Mrs. Coates, "We are strictly volunteers. We draw no salaries. And we are about to run out of finances."

She does not hide the fact that she and Sandi have used some $10,000 of their husbands' money to keep the co-op afloat.

"We have vowed to pay back our husbands," says Mrs. Piccini.

It won't be easy.

The women have applied for federal and state funding but, so far, they have been assured of only $6,700 from revenue sharing funds. And those checks have not yet begun to arrive.

Other state and federal grants remain indefinite at best and non-existent at worst.

Their experiences with the governmental bureaucracy have left them feeling strongly that, perhaps, they would be better off without public money.

"If we are funded privately," notes Mrs. Coates, "then we retain control."

The women have been seeking support from a number of foundations and businesses both here and in San Francisco. Thus far, there have been no commitments.

"We try not to think about all this too much," laments Mrs. Piccini.

The women had formed an art gallery, called Gallery Faire, in that rented South San Francisco warehouse but business there has been slow.

Profits from the gallery were to have gone toward supporting the food program.

How much money do they need to remain in operation? Neither of the women is certain. At this point, they point out that any amount would be helpful. Today, they are literally planning only a day at a time because their resources have become so thin.

Facing tough times

Their financial plight could not have come at a worse time. Soon, they will be providing food for 19 senior citizen complexes in San Francisco.

"We have become a political football," says Mrs. Coates, referring to their struggle with the federal and state authorities.

Even at that, though, the accomplishments of these two San Bruno housewives have been considerable.

"People are always surprised at how far we've gotten in one year," says Mrs. Coates.

How much farther they can proceed remains to be seen.

In a few weeks, the Food Advisory Service will be a non-profit corporation.

This could provide private businesses with an incentive to donate funds to the North County service.

If not, the women cannot estimate how long they can hold out.

'No More Films'

San Bruno City Atty. Joe Galligan unequivocally told the City Council on Aug. 11 he believes no movies will ever be shown again at the El Camino Theater at the entrance to downtown.

Galligan said the only way the theater can ever open legally again is if the City Council votes to rezone the theater property on San Mateo Avenue or votes to change the uses in the central business district.

Le Pacini

Occasionally the cutting room floor (or the editor's blue pencil) saves a columnist from making more of a fool of himself than he normally does. At other times, it prevents him from being a seer.

Earlier in the season, space problems one week prevented us from being in the latter position. Of course, if we had guts enough, we would have repeated the item, but what happened was, the week our item on the weaknesses of the A's was forced out, the A's went on one of their big winnings tears, and we figured that providence had prevented us once again from appearing foolish. And for all we know, by the time this appears, the A's may be off on another winning streak, which will give them their second chance to make us look foolish.

What we would have said several weeks ago was that no matter what the A's public relations men said, Jim Perry and Sonny Siebert and Dick Bosman and Stan Bahnsen would not take Catfish Hunter's place, and that this would especially show up in the playoff's, if the A's made the playoff's. As we pointed out at that time, the proof of the fact that the A's really were still relying on only two starting pitchers (Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman, and their relief staff) was the fact that the biggest winner on the staff behind Blue and Holtzman was Paul Linblad, the great relief pitcher.

We also noted that while the A's this year apparently have the best starting lineup since they've been in Oakland, they also have their weakest bench, a factor which hadn't at that time shown up because the A's had been very healthy in comparison with the injury problems some other contenders had.

Recently, you may have noticed, those Hunter "replacements" just haven't been coming through the way they had been earlier. The A's suddenly have been hit with more than just nagging injuries — the kind that cause lineup juggling and can sometimes upset that delicate balance it takes to make a champion.

If either Blue or Holtzman should suddenly falter down the stretch, the A's may not have to worry about whether or not two solid starters will be adequate for the playoffs.

Another item which had to go temporarily ignored due to lack of space concerned the little known fact Cleveland third baseman Buddy Bell refused an all-star game bid because, in his own words, he "Didn't deserve it."

Bell was absolutely right. Until the last day of all-star voting, however, the fans had him in the lead in their balloting for American League third basemen. As we pointed out here at that time, it was absurd. Graig Nettles of the Yankees surely deserved the votes, we noted, and there were at least two or three other third basemen who deserved more recognition than Bell, who actually is having one of his worst years.

As you know, Nettles won on that last day, but Bell, as runner-up, was asked to serve by AL manager Alvin Dark. Bell, to his lasting credit, showed class and declined, commenting that it "wouldn't have been fair to some other players who deserved it more than I."

Bell also told Sporting News writer Russell Schneider that he wouldn't have accepted the honor even if he had beaten Nettles out in the voting.

If anybody is interested, we too are going to jump on the bandwagon and say yes, John Montefusco is good for baseball. His Muhammad Ali approach also is good for him.

We think we can understand what Montefusco is doing. In setting such goals for himself as shutouts, he's psyching himself in a way which will make him feel personally humiliated if he fails. He therefore forces himself to use 100 per cent of his ability to avoid that humiliation. That is good. Almost all of the really great athletes we know or have read and heard about have looked on defeat — even team defeats in which they may personally have been outstanding — as personal humiliations.

If in the meantime, Montefusco's great competitiveness draws extra fans — that's even better. We sometimes wonder what a Montefusco pitching and a Dave Kingman on one of his homerun hitting binges could have drawn in Candlestick on, say, a Sunday doubleheader against a good team. Kingman however, is no longer with the Giants.

There always has been a debate as to who draws more fans, a colorful and effective pitcher (a Feller, Dean, Koufax, Ryan), going every fourth or fifth day, or a slugger, playing daily. It's easier to pinpoint exactly how many fans a pitcher is worth because he doesn't play every day, so comparisons can be drawn, and his appearances are also announced several days in advance. A fan, therefore, can always point for a day he wishes to see a certain pitcher, whereas position players — especially in today's platoon baseball — don't always necessarily appear when it's expected they should.

Also, in the case of the slugger, unless he is going for a definite record, as Maris and Aaron were doing, his specialty is an on-going thing and not a "special occasion" as when a pitcher is appearing. Unless the slugger is Babe Ruth, it really is hard to say exactly how many "extra" fans he draws from day to day.

We do know that if the player, whether he be a pitcher or a power hitter, is as personally colorful a character as he is effective at his job, he definitely will draw those "extra" fans. John Montefusco seems to have found that formula.

It's just occurred to us that the Giants have as formidable a hitting lineup as there is in baseball, if one wishes to concern himself only with batting averages. When Dave Rader is behind the plate and Steve Ontiveros is at third, the Giants have, in order (these statistics current as this is written): a .325 hitter leading off (Joshua), followed by a .280 (Thomas), a .310 (Murcer), a .280 (Matthews), a .295 (Montenez), a .280 (Speier), a .270 (Ontiveros) and a .305 (Rader). That's a starting eight average of about .290 plus.

What's lacking, of course, to make the Giants a truly formidable attacking force, is long ball hitting. Unless Bobby Murcer suddenly gets a little hot, he will lead the Giants in homers this year with only about 15, at his present pace. No team can win with that kind of power unless it has great pitching.

FUN AT FAIRE

One of the fun activities planned for the Bicen-tennial Fun Faire to be held Thursday at Westlake Park is a tug-of-war. Participants from all the city playgrounds will play games at the Daly City Recreation Department sponsored event.

Soccer League Expands; Players, Referees Needed

Boys and girls interested in playing soccer this fall with the American Youth Soccer Organization may register at the San Bruno Library on Aug. 25 from 7-9 p.m.

A Pele soccer film, "The Master and His Methods," plus highlights of the boys' soccer games from last season will be shown.

This year, competition is divided into six boys' age divisions: 7-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, 15-16, 17-18; and four girls' age divisions: 7-9, 10-12, 13-15, 16-18.

American Youth Soccer Organization is a non-profit organization whose motto is "everyone plays" and is form available at the San Bruno Library or Recreation Center.

Although venturing into the North AYSO Region 63, P.O. Box 4162, Bur-county for the first time, AYSO has lingame.

had teams from Millbrae-Burlingame southward for several years.

This year a new Region 63 has been formed to comprise approximately 60 teams from San Bruno, Millbrae, Burlingame, South San Francisco, Daly City, Colma and Pacifica.

Because of this projected growth, a larger number of referees, coaches and assistants will be needed.

Anyone interested in assisting in any way may also come for open registration or fill out a pre-registration form available at the San Bruno Library or Recreation Center.

Libraries often are for the young sources of wonder and joy. So it was recently at the San Mateo Library when Buttons the clown skipped in to regale an enthusiastic gathering with stories of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey's Circus. The annual extravaganza plays Aug. 19-25 at the Oakland Coliseum and moves to the Cow Palace in Daly City for shows Aug. 27 through Sept. 1.

Clowning Around

Lids Lifted in DC Heist

Police are calling it The Big Rip-off.

Thursday night, two youths were seen fleeing an apartment garage on Lausanne Avenue in Daly City about 4 a.m.

Closer inspection by police, called to the scene by a suspicious occupant of the apartment house, revealed the tops of 10 washing machines and 10 dryers had been ripped off and carried away.

The robbers were apparently after the coin boxes secured to the lids, police said.

In addition, 15 cars were broken into and stereo tape decks stolen, police said.

County Mental Health Services Are Extensive

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Few persons realize the extent of services provided in San Mateo County by the Mental Health Services Division of the Department of Health and Welfare.

A staff of some 250 persons is employed by the Mental Health Services Division, which not only provides in-patient care at Chope
Community Hospital in San Mateo, but also operates four regional mental health centers and other facilities.

The division also is involved in alcoholism and drug abuse programs, vocational rehabilitation services and a program for the mentally retarded.

Included on the mental health staff are 48 full-time psychiatrists who have various duties in supervising and providing direct care to patients.

Dr. John S. Visser, program chief for the Mental Health Services Division, says that the percentage of psychiatrists on the staff in relation to the social workers, psychologists, occupational therapists and clerical workers has probably decreased during the past 10 years when the division staff has doubled.

There is no surplus of psychiatric time in the mental health programs, Visser insists.

"They keep busy," he states.

A psychiatrist has a role with every patient seen — supervising or facilitating treatment and training social workers, making psychiatric evaluations and prescribing medicine.

The program tries to utilize social workers as broadly as possible, with psychiatrist backup, in order that psychiatrists can utilize their special skills for more patients, Visser says.

During a single year, up to 15,000 persons in the county seek mental health assistance of one kind or another, with 700 to 800 in the program at any one time.

Visser, as program chief,
devotes full time to administration of the department, developing programs and seeking state and federal funding. Prior to joining the county staff in 1969, he spent 15 years in private practice in Berkeley.

Serving under Visser are 33 graduate psychiatrists, 8 to 10 of whom have been in the field a "long time" and are engaged primarily in administration and clinical supervision.

The others are younger psychiatrists who are comparatively recently out of training or out of services.
Many of the latter stay with the county only two or three years, Visser says, while they build up their private practice on the side.

He estimates that of the 70 to 80 psychiatrists in private practice in the county, two-

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Tablesides Cooking Steakery Restaurant

Phil Lehr, creative owner-host of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco, has brought the art of tableside cooking to new heights of perfection. Patrons in the elegant Wellington Room are treated to a continuous show of spectacular flaming steak dishes being cooked to order from special carts wheeled to tableside. For an exciting taste treat, order the flaming Steak Shalot a la Armanino. . . Nick Gust always has his golf bags packed — in readiness for invitations to tournaments — from coast-to-coast. Besides being "on the ball" as a restaurateur, Nick plays a great game of golf. For your information, sir, this Bright Lighter has taken up the game. Be on your guard! . . . Cisco and Boston Mason, who alternate in the lounges of Vince Russo's two restaurants, The Distillery in San Bruno and The Eggplant in Burlingame, not only entertain with a heap of music and great comedy, they even have a "fast draw" gun routine. . . When in South Lake Tahoe (where parking space is now a premium), head your auto north of the big-time action to the South Tahoe Nugget. There's parking galore, plenty of gaming action, and menu variety under the breakfast, lunch and dinner banner. Open 24 hours a day. . . Only a few more days remain to register for the "Back-to-school" drawing at Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants in San Bruno. The winning entry receives $300 worth of new school clothes from various shops located in the shopping center. The drawing is scheduled for September 3, and you need not be present to win. The nine restaurants are open seven days a week featuring menu variety for family dining. Wednesday night (only) 4 'til 9 p.m. each restaurant offers a $1.49 special dinner. Come as you are — bring big appetites.

MUSICAL CAPERS

The Tri-Sounds, now appearing at The Fisherman in Burlingame, are singers as well as musicians. Led by Tom Lucia, the trio excels with country, rock and soul, harmony and Italian sets.

Tempting Special at Fling's Drive Ins

Dave Jazinsky, owner of Fling's Drive Ins, San Mateo and Burlingame, is very promotion-minded. Now through September 1, free French fries and a small drink of your choice will be offered to customers purchasing one of Fling's famous "Big Burgers." This give-away is available at both Fling's locations. . . It's a pleasure to recommend Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant. The menu offers an impressive selection of seafood dishes, as well as savory Italian specialties. It also lists steaks, chicken, soups, salads and sandwiches.

Seeing is believing, and you'll see that the $3.95 Early Evening dinner specials at the Shirt Tail, in Palo Alto, are food bargains. Featured this week from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. are Teriyaki Steak, Roast Leg of Lamb, Sea Scallops, and Braised Sirloin Tips. . . Matt Reis, the "jolly giant" of the Burlingame Lincoln Mercury Dealership, enjoys his weekly trips to Palm Springs by celebrating with a luncheon at the Airport Marina Hotel before flight time.

If you've never visited a Scottish castle, may we suggest a dinner visit to Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City, where just about everything except a draw bridge is on display for your scrutiny. . . Luncheon in the flower-filled Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco is like a quickie trip to the tropics. For a luscious summertime treat, order their fresh fruit salad. It's a taste-tempting combination of strawberries, pineapple, papaya, mangoes, honey dew and crenshaw melons and canteloupe. . . Ted Steiner, the "sparkling" Third Avenue jeweler, calls attention to the fact that he has "found" Romano's in Rockaway Beach. "One of the best Italian dinners I have ever enjoyed," said Steiner with a gleam in his eye. . . From the way drive-up bookings have been filling the books, this month looks like a new high for Nevada Tours. If you haven't taken advantage of the big refund packages now being offered here, there's no better time than now. . . Apocalypse is the wild band currently drawing SRO audiences at Bayhill Lounge, in San Bruno. This group of local musicians has an avid following of Bay Area fans. . . Erik Pedersen, general manager of the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco, has added another fashion show day to the lunch-time agenda. The modeling of lingerie is now featured in the Golden Rooster Lounge every Wednesday and Thursday during the lunch hours.
